WRC

REVIVING COURAGE,
EMPOWERING LIVES

Our Mission

WRC is dedicated to stopping domestic violence and sexual assault by rebuilding lives together.

Our Vision

WRC is committed to providing the highest quality supportive services, counseling, shelter and education to San Diego County women, children and men involved in or threatened by domestic violence or sexual assault. Through survivor empowerment, education of the next generation, and community awareness, we will create an environment where domestic violence and sexual assault are neither tolerated nor accepted.

Testimonials

“When I arrived at the emergency shelter, I had nothing. I had no job, no child care for my children, or a place to call my home. I felt so hopeless due to the ugly separation from my abusive spouse. My self-esteem was at an all-time low, I felt so alone and lost. Thankfully when I arrived at WRC and received support, I felt they gave me back my hope to live once again and that I could truly begin to work towards a new chapter in my life free of violence. The staff gave me guidance, resources and the tools that I would need to feel empowered to start my new life. After, I was accepted into WRC's transitional housing program. The first day we walked into our apartment, I felt I was home. It brought so much peace to our life to know that the storm we were in had finally passed.”

“Coming from the shelter where I was in “survival mode” to the transitional housing program where it was a safe place to call home was so surreal. I made my little studio unit into our very own home, with my own creative flair. I'm currently bettering my life by finding a new job while also returning to school to better my career options. With my small and growing savings, I will continue to save what I have in order to prepare for when I graduate from the program. I will be forever grateful for the donors who continue to help struggling mothers and their children get through these trying times in life. The world is a better place because of people like you. Thank you!”

SHELTER AND TRANSITIONAL HOUSING

“Alternatives to Abuse” is WRC’s emergency shelter in a confidential location that provides safety and security to survivors who are in need of housing as a result of domestic violence.

“I will forever be appreciative to WRC for opening their doors to my family and for the caring and genuine hearts of their staff members. I felt safe and calm within their shelter, like I could finally take a breath of fresh air and for the first time I did truly feel that things would get better”

Since 1974, WRC has maintained and operated a 24-hour crisis hotline available to those in need of immediate assistance, referrals, information, and shelter.

“When times became tough and I had to leave my home, I turned to WRC’s emergency shelter. The shelter provided me and my child with our physiological needs being met. Their warmth and care helped my child regulate throughout the transition from a two parent household to single parent care.”

From Our Chief Executive

2020 will be a year to remember because of the impact of COVID-19 on the world. But 2020 will also be recognized for the power of philanthropy, and the power of communities coming together. Our WRC community came together and met the challenges posed by the pandemic to best serve our clients, even under the most strenuous of circumstances.

The WRC is grateful for all our partnerships and your incredible support to provide world-class services to the most vulnerable. Your support provided 22,482 nights of safe shelter to parents, their children and 36,832 services to 4,905 clients.

It is my honor to be the leader of the WRC! I appreciate your investment and the hard work of our amazing volunteers and staff to change the world together.

Sincerely

Marina V. Araiza, MSW
Chief Executive Officer

Quote:

"The DV/SA Advocate training through the Women's Resource Center was something that will impact the work I do for years to come. The quality of speakers, depth of material covered and the interaction of the cohort made this training shine. WRC did an amazing job of facilitating powerful testimonies and qualified presenters with both lived experiences and field expertise."

WRC's Thrift Store

In 1998, WRC opened our Thrift Store to help meet the needs of low income families and survivors as they rebuild their lives after domestic violence and sexual assault.

REBUILDING LIVES AT OUR THRIFT STORE

WRC believed having a thrift store where we provide our families with vouchers that are used "same as cash" to shop, dignified their experience and helped return independence, by putting them back in control with the opportunity to select clothing and other items that would best suit their needs.

MAKING A DIFFERENCE WITH YOUR DONATIONS

All the sales at our store generate funds for the operation of WRC's additional services by reselling items that have been donated by supporters of WRC to the public. Your donations are incredibly important to providing free shopping for clients in need, but also raising meaningful funds to support our agency as whole.

COVID-19 Response

As COVID-19 cases surged in the United States in 2020, stay-at-home orders and school closures changed the lives of everyone in our community - and changed the way WRC serves survivors.

Our bold and dynamic containment plan yielded tangible results. Throughout the pandemic, WRC only experienced 3 COVID-19 cases in the Transitional Housing program and no cases at our emergency shelter. Our residents and staff showed remarkable resilience and honored the collective spirit of the organization by working together to keep each other safe and healthy. WRC was also able to arrange early access to COVID-19 vaccinations for our clients and staff through our partners in Friends of WRC and Neighborhood Healthcare.

The demand for our services changed in ways that no one could have predicted, and WRC was able to rise to the occasion due to the incredible community response from donors and grant committees. Due to this generosity, we provided rent assistance. We provided emergency food services to our clients and our community at large when many people lost their jobs and were facing food insecurity. WRC also obtained grant funding to purchase laptops to meet the new at-home schooling requirements faced by our residential clients' children.

Per the New England Journal of Medicine, while many domestic violence service providers and hotlines equipped themselves for a significant uptick in hotline calls, many organizations experienced the opposite - many providers nationwide experienced a decrease of over 50% in call volume. While it has been proven that domestic violence has significantly increased during the pandemic, experts believe that the downturn in hotline calls is due to the inability of victims to connect safely with services as their abusers are spending more time at home. In addition, with the pandemic-related changes to the court system and police report filing, it may take years for us to understand the true impact of COVID-19 on domestic violence and related services.

Due to this phenomenon, WRC expects to see a greater demand for services once the pandemic restrictions are eased and lifted, and it becomes safe for survivors to seek help. We will be relying on the generosity of donors more than ever to help us provide new clients with the assistance they need as we do our part to heal this community.

In the meantime, we keep looking forward to the bright futures that we are determined to create, and we are staying busy, healthy, and optimistic for the next chapter!

Celebrating 40 Years of Saving Lives at our Shelter

We could not let the year pass without acknowledging the incredible 40 year milestone of saving lives at our shelter. Since 1980 our shelter has served as a safe haven for victims ready to escape, and been the catalyst to stopping the cycle of violence in families.

We celebrated this momentous event with our online Magical Evening: 40 for 40 fundraiser. It was an inspiring and special occasion, with one of our founders Colleen O'Harra sharing her story, and the agency tributing this milestone to our former CEO of 40 years, Marva Bledsoe. The community came out to support us once again, and we could not have been more proud of such an accomplishment. We feel honored to have worked with the countless brave survivors who trusted us to keep them safe and worked so hard to transform their lives.

From starting an underground shelter system, to today having a total of 31 beds, we will continue as an agency to expand and develop the services our community needs. WRC is founded on the spirit, strength and passion of the five incredible women who founded our agency 46 years ago, which has set the tone for the force WRC is today.
